

Here are some screenshots dated before the Alpha release, in which we believe we could have received Cool Points for:

Discord integration – We use Discord for communication, and we managed to set up a GitHub webhook that is integrated into our chat, which sends notifications about commits and GitHub Actions pipelines. However, we did not mention this in our alpha release, but our screenshot shows it was done before the submission date of the alpha release.

Artifact Generation

In our GitHub Actions, we have a pipeline which generates an executable artifact, which was working before the alpha release as well.
